Hunt Extends its Surfhunter Line with Elegant New Surfhunter 33

Boston & South Dartmouth, Massachusetts, USA -- This Fall, Hunt Yachts will be launching the largest Surfhunter yet, a 33-footer designed by C. Raymond Hunt Associates. The Surfhunter 33 follows their 25 and 29 models which were introduced over the past two years. This responds to requests from prospects for a larger Surfhunter that can sleep four but retain the distinctive Hunt style and the proven performance of their legendary Hunt deep-V hull.

The standard Surfhunter 33 will be powered by a Yanmar 315 (HP) diesel, driving a 5-blade prop placed in a hull tunnel (to minimize draft and permit beaching). Speeds in excess of 30 MPH are anticipated with this simple and efficient powertrain, and larger engines are available. For easy maneuvering docking, a bow thruster is standard.

The Surfhunter 33 layout includes a large V-berth forward, a convertible dinette, large head with standing headroom and shower, plus a full galley with SS sink, refrigerator, butane stove, microwave, and requisite cabinetry. Counters are Corian and interior woodwork is satin-finish cherry; the cabin sole is teak and holly.

The design intent was to deliver a fast, elegant and comfortable boat that is efficient to run, dry and secure. Buyers can then extensively factory-upgrade to personalize their Surfhunter 33 for a deluxe and very unique "pocket" motoryacht.

Considerable effort has been invested in reducing sound levels, using a specialized muffler, extensive sound deadening materials and well-fitted engineroom enclosure, to permit civilized conversation at maximum speed. Other noteworthy features include the use of extensively shaped upholstery that precisely conforms to its location and an optional "big yacht" L-settee (in lieu of companion pedestal seat) for the bridgedeck.
